When selecting Stirling engine plans you need to decide if you're going to build a high skill level machined engine or just a tin can stove top model. Your limits may already be set. For example you may not have access to the tools to make a precision Stirling engine. Also, you may not have the skill level (yet) necessary to build a more complicated model.

If you are into model engineering, then they are a great challenge to build one from scratch, but luckily ready-made 'build your own Stirling engine kits' are available, mostly manufactured in the Far East, where labor is cheaper, where these kits come ready machined and require assembly by the purchaser.
