Chyna Every chance I get, I go to watch the local fights. I crave the excitement and the rush as it courses through my body, with the sounds of fists meeting flesh. It's not just the blood or the hard bodies that keeps me coming back each time, wanting more. It's Jace 'King' Kash and his arctic blue eyes. He has fists made of steel with a body honed for speed. He's breathtaking to watch in the cage. The King easily brings men to their knees, and then graciously helps them up when he's finished. Getting introduced to him was thrilling, falling in love with him, unexpected. Jace comes pounding through, waking my mind and body up; showing me what I was missing out on in my life. He makes me realize what I could have and that what doesn't destroy me, will eventually make me stronger. Jace Illusions, life is full of them. My life wasn't always like it is now, how it appears from the outside. I was drowning in drugs, gangs and in my brother's bad decisions. So, I did what I do best, I fought my way out. I keep fighting, using every asset I have and attempting to get as far away from my past as possible. Chyna enters into my life right as I'm prepping for the biggest fight of my existence. I wasn't looking for any new distractions, but she becomes my personal drug of choice, begging me to use her. Unfortunately, Chyna's not the only person that show's up out of the blue. When my past decides to go after my girl, it's my turn to make it rain, to make it hurt. I refuse to let it destroy me this time, dragging her down in the process. I just hope she can make it through the last round beside me and not forfeit. Once that bell rings, watch out, because I will come for you, I will hunt you down and fight to the death. I'm the King, I won't be defeated. This is a STANDALONE with a HEA and NO cheating.

Yet when it comes to relationships, they can't figure out what makes men tick. Why? According to Steve it's because they're asking other women for advice when no one but another man can tell them how to find and keep a man. In Act Like a Lady, Think Like a Man, Steve lets women inside the mindset of a man and sheds light on concepts and questions such as: The Ninety Day Rule: Ford requires it of its employees. These are the things that I've always wanted: To get the top grades in my class. To make my grandmother proud. And most of all, proof that I could succeed where the rest of my family had not: a Stanford acceptance letter, early admission. My mother and my sister were obsessed with boys and love and sex. So obsessed that they lost sight of their futures, of what they wanted. And in the end, they lost everything. I'll never let a boy distract me. I promised myself that. But that was before Tate. Before the biggest pop star on the planet took an interest in me. Before private planes and secret dates and lyrics meant for me alone. There's so much I don't know. Like why he left music. Where he goes when we're not together. What dark past he's hiding. But when we kiss, the future feels far away. And now...I'm not sure what I want.

"I know that you may read this and think that a forty-something-year-old woman had more important things to do. But I am telling you, when you connect with someone not from this material world that has told you information only you could know, you would also be compelled to learn more. The fact that she revealed the 1,2,3,4, simply cemented my belief. No one had known this. It was a trifling thing that I had just been noticing for a while. She was giving me the password—the one thing that would cinch it for me. Now, I had many questions to ask." Debra led her life as most of us do. She worked, raised her children, and had a social circle of friends with her husband. She didn't do a lot of questioning about the meaning of her life until simultaneous events triggered her to think about love and loss, her purpose, and the afterlife. She takes us on her journey of discovery with experiences from her past, unreal experiences in the present, and the advent of her daughter's psychic talent. Could expanding our beliefs of spirituality and possibility lead us to experience true love from the "other" side? Is there more than one realm of existence living cohesively? She found many answers, along with many more questions. She now believes we are never alone. This non-fictional account involves the paranormal, the growth of her daughter as a medium, and the encompassing love of those around us we know—and some we don't know. Take heart and join her journey; there is much more to this life than what we see with our eyes.
